Love
BY MR. CORREY

Love finds its happiness in simple things.
The perfume of a sweet, simple flower.
The pleasure of a child's innocent heart.
Fill up the world with simple things.
A flower once given by a loved one's hand,
An hour when a word of love was spoken, Come back, as if the spell had never been broken,
And find our spirits in a new world.
Love finds its happiness in simple things.
It strains to catch the faintest passing breath,
Of what it loves; it never finds the death.
Of love, so long as it lives in the night.
Love will content itself to watch from far,
The very spot where the loved form dwells,
And find with happy contentment the spell Cast over it by its own bright guiding star.
The gentle pressure of an outstretched hand, A few words told in the moon's glow,
The shy withdrawal of a stolen glance, Felt the spirit with the truest hand.
Oh, love, sweet love! why dost thou turn to die, Broadly the joy of each of us?
Why dost thou plume thy wings and flee away, Leaving us night for thy own countless day?
What are we now wanting thy image for?

VARIETY.

Will I?—Johnny (from the fruiterer's)— "Mamma, if I eat dates enough will I grow up to be an attorney."

Easily.—Gent.—"I left a lock of hair here a few days ago to be fitted in a lock. Is it—ah—ready?" "Artist.—"Very ready, dollar half." He has been misled. But it's of no consequence, sir.
We can easily get it matched, sir!"

Lying.—In Paris, they say, the best of men live ten times a day, the best of women twenty times a day, the fashionable man a hundred times a day. No estimate has been made as to how many times a day a fashionable woman lies.

Better Versed.—"She's a perfect Amazon," said a pupil in one of our schools of her teacher to a companion. "Yes," said the other, "who was better versed in geography than history. I noticed she had an awful big mouth."

A man who had saved the life of a daughter of a Boston millionaire received two dollars and a half from the grateful parent. It was so overcome with the magnificent bounty that he paid out every cent of it to seventeen organ grinders to serenade his benefactor.

A man in Nevada, who has been named for the Legislature, is now practicing for that position.
He can already drink two quarts of whiskey per day, except five hundred dollar bottles without winking, and hurl an inkstand at a hat on a desk and knock it off nine times out of ten.

Love.—A Milwaukee clerk kissed his girl about forty times right straight along, and when he stopped the tears came into her eyes, and she said in a sad tone of voice:—"Ah, John, I fear you have ceased to love me. I haven't," replied John, "but I must breathe."

What He Would Do.—The Baptists of Catskill, at communion, recently found themselves without wine. A thief had somehow stolen it, and the Recorder stated:—"Any man who would rob a church will slide down in his grand-mother's collar."

His Wish.—A Delaware man married a woman because she was deaf, and he thought she kept her tongue still. So she did, but when he fell into the well and yelled himself hoarse trying to make her hear, he was hoarse and she came a foot long and could hear a whisper a mile away.

Selling Pills.—A fellow with a red nose and blind in one eye is selling the negroes down South, a pill warranted to make them white, and in about fifteen minutes after they swallow it they lean across a sawbuck and turn themselves inside out, but the white is all in their eye.

Modest.—The historic modest woman who wanted partridge on the piano will please step down out of her niche to make room for Mrs. Kent, of Springfield, who declined to let her daughter participate in a spelling-match because she understood some knotty words to be given out.

Knowing Dogs.—Says the Petersburg, Va., Times: Every dog in town seems to know the dog-cart, and also knows when his license is paid. If he wears the requisite pass he follows the dog-catcher, and seems to delight in the misfortunes of his less fortunate brethren; but if he is not thus provided he sneaks around corners, dares into alleys, and behaves just like a man who is in debt and is afraid to meet his creditors.

Wanted His Rights.—"Ish der some loider here for me?" inquired a German at the general delivery window at the Post-office on Saturday. "No, none here," was the reply. "Yell dotzish quess," he continued, getting his head into the window: "my neighbor gets sometimes three loiders in one day, and I get none. I pays more daxes as he does, and I haf never got one loider yet. How comes dose things?"

A Boston paper gives the following description of Gen. Butler as he recently appeared on the railing, and was sworn. He reverently kissed the Bible, and then took his seat in the witness chair. He seemed about to smile, and then his features assumed an expression of gloom. The great, bulging eye twisted and opened like a clam shell. His other eye was attacked with a fit of winks, and he made the most horrible grimaces for a few seconds, winking up and down, and the demon of the stage might have envied.

The ingenious French have contrived a novel way to impress the barbaric mind. M. de Brazza, who has charge of the expedition to Senegal, carries an electric battery in his pocket connecting with two rings on his hands and with other apparatus scattered about his person. When he shakes hands with a savage chief that chief will be very much astonished, for an electric shock will run up his arm, and he will see lightning playing about the head of the chief. Naturally he will think he is being interviewed by the devil, and will be ready to consent to anything in order to get away.

The "American orator" still lives and was at the Mecklenburg Centennial in his glory.
Hear him: "This day, Ephraim and Gilead, Simeon and Galilee, Bethlehem and Jerusalem, all rise fresh before our memories. We have gathered around these old altars of freedom and hosted the blood-god of our joys. All the time we were tearing the poppies from our brows and adorning them with bays and laurels."

At an auction of household goods in Harrison avenue yesterday, when a woman had made a bid on an old bureau worth about $2 a boy lipped around to another woman and whispered:
"You see that woman over there with a blue bow on?"
"Yes."
"Well, she says that no woman with a red nose can say anything at all!"

The woman with the red nose pushed her way into the crowd and run the price of the bureau up to $12, and it was knocked down to her for $10.

"I may have a red nose, but no cross-eyed woman with a blue bow on can bluff me!"
